BERNARD SHAW'S EPIGRAMS.

The golden rule is that there is no golden rule.

The ideal wife is one who does everything that the ideal husband likes—and nothing else.

Democracy substitutes election by the incompetent many for appointment by the corrupt few.

He who believes in education, criminal law, and sport needs only property to make him a perfect gentleman.

Do not waste your time on social questions. What is the matter with the poor is poverty; what is the matter with the rich is uselessness.

A gentleman of our days is one who has money enough to do what every fool would do if he could afford it—that is, consume without producing.

Our plan is to govern by humbug, and let everybody into the secret. The French govern by melodrama, and give everybody a part in the piece.

Man gives every reason for his conduct save one; every excuse for his crime save one; every plea for his safety save one, and that is cowardice.

We live in an atmosphere of shame. We are ashamed of everything that is real about us—ashamed of ourselves, of our relations, of our incomes, of our accents, of our opinions, of our experience. The more things a man is ashamed of the more respectable he is.

ADVICE TO THE RAW YOUTH.

Better homespun suits than breaches of promise.

A breach of extraordinary promise often results in alimony.

A youthful face is often an asset, and after experience, ascetic.

A girl loves well-creased trousers, and her mother watches them.

A painstaking refusal is sometimes worse than a peremptory rejection.

There is safety in numbers, but that applies to your bankbook as well.

Be an eccentric and let her admire you. Then you're safe either way.

Remember that the more radiant the socks the cooler should be the head.

On your knees is no fit talk for a gentleman to hear. Tell her you're a big boy now.

Some sacrifices can be afforded in affairs of the heart. (Id. exception, page 1 of the notes.)

Making funny faces is a nice, charitable way of giving a girl a giggle, but make sure you can afford the sacrifice.

Do not loiter at the sill; it's compromising. If you cannot tear yourself away you will be called a "stick plaster."

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

When a woman wants to be in bed by ten o'clock she should begin undressing by nine.

When a man takes off his socks you can see a scar on his toe where he cut it as a boy.

What has become of the old-fashioned woman who called the children's crying "bawling?"

One of the funniest things we know of is the manner in which a young man drops out of the social world when he gets married.

We would like to know some one who is generally admired. We never knew any one who was not frequently abused like a thief.

When a wife dies the husband nearly always says: "Well, I was a great trial to her. I might have done much better: I would do better if I had my life to live over." But when a husband dies the widow nearly always says: "Well, I did my duty."—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Go forward, face new times, the better day.—Browning.

"Those who do most in the world are those who love most."

Happiness is a perfect activity in a perfect life.—Aristotle.

A happy disposition is largely a disposition to make others happy.—Puck.

One life permeates all things, and there is no corner of the cosmos too remote to feel its heart-throb.—Henry Wood.

Nothing can work me damage except myself; the harm that I sustain I carry about with me and am a real sufferer but by my own fault.—St. Bernard.

I have always thought the actions of men the best interpretation of their thoughts.—Locke.
